

1.Title of the practice:

Celebration of Commemorative Days.

2.Objective of The Practice:

The Celebration of Commemorative Days at the college encourages celebrations and observation of significant days and people set by the government and other organizations to remember a public figure and health or ethical cause that is significant on a national or international level. It aids in keeping track of "International & National Days" to recognize significant events in history and human life. The intended outcome of this practice is to raise awareness of significant days & celebration of world heritage, biodiversity, and culture among students as well as to sensitize them about global issues.

3.The Context:

In order to hold a college level celebration with the proper procedures & telling the significance of why that day has been celebrated or why that person has been commemorated from many past years. We celebrate and organise event and competitions at various days. It helps the students to remember "International & National Days" to mark important aspects of human life and history. Students can develop connections, comprehend various viewpoints, and engage with cultures. Through the interactions or group engagement that is inspired by various events or competitions organised by the college. One can widen their competitive, artistic and interpersonal skills like public speaking/Speech, Drawing, Poster Making, Debate, Essay, Quiz, Poem Writing by participating in those competitions.

4.The Practice:

In detail of one of our best practices that is celebration and commemoration of days and persons who have played a vital role in the history and cultural development of India, which has its own uniqueness in the context of India's higher education because Indian Higher Education does not only tell to develop the intellectual insight in the students as well as it also approaches towards Holistic development of the students. Our institution makes a variety of endeavours to conserve and promote Indian language, ancient traditional knowledge, Indian arts and Indian culture. The techniques of the preservation process involve the observance of Republic Day, Independence Day, National Youth Day, Indian Army Day, Constitution Day, Gandhi Jayanti, Teachers Day, Indian Navy Day, Aids Day, Armed Forces Flag Day, National Girl Child Day, National Voters Day, Hindi Diwas, Mathematics Day, Science Day, Environment Day, World Consumer Day, Soil Day, Ozone Day, Women's Day, World Nature Conservation Day, World No Tobacco Day, Road Safety Day, Teacher's Day etc. We also remember the great Indian writers by reciting their poetry to students as an effort to make them aware of the great work they have done. We used to display Historical, Cultural and Folk Literature and interviews with many authors. So, that the young Minds might see those greatest artist's perspective. Student's confidence is increased by the cultural events, which enables them to perform better. Student's personalities grow as a result of these activities and participations, which also help them to develop positive career paths. In truth, pupils might also benefit by taking part in a variety of activities.

It is well recognised that cultural connection has a significant role in lowering the risk of mental health conditions like depression and addictive behaviours. Each year, more studies demonstrate that people who have greater ties to their families, society and cultures are considerably less likely to struggle with depressing thoughts, despair, and substance misuse.

5.Evidence of Success:

- This effort helped students to establish a relationship along with other students who have similar interests to them and also they realised that there are teachers who can support them academically or even personally and professionally by encouraging them for taking part in campus social events.
- It was observed by the institution that the programs organised by various Club, Cell or the Departments which was very engaging from the part of students because those students who were very introvert during the classes, it was seen that they actively participated in the various events/competitions. For us this was the best thing because if the student is not having excellence in Academics but he or she is having good command over other skills so he can choose his career in other sectors as well just like if he/she is having cultural knowledge he can go to the historical or cultural development of the nation as well as if he/she is having good knowledge about politics he can choose the field of politics. Similar happens with writing and drawing skills.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

There were many issues faced by the college in order to celebrate such commemorative days and events those are:

a. Event Selection: It was the prime challenge in front of the institution because there were days on which two to three events used to occur. So, it was very difficult for the organisers that which event has to be selected and prioritised as per its historic and cultural importance.

b. Preference of Days or People: This also happened sometimes that the Birth Anniversaries of two important leaders or scientists occurred at the same day. So, due to lack of time and focus on classes it was not possible for the college to manage both the celebrations. Therefore, the preference that details of which Personality has to be introduced in front of students was very tough job.

c. Academic Vs Skill Achievement: It was very tough from the part of Institution that if any student is very good at any other skills so we can't push or direct that students to the last extent just because we want that student to perform well in the academic sector as well this was the another barrier in reference with completion of curriculum faced by the institution.

7. Notes:

Students are the foundation of a nation's progress. So, they should be trained in way to be crucial to the nation's growth and play a significant role in it. A country cannot have prosperity if its citizens are not educated and have moral and ethical values,there is no better strategy in place to celebrate and commemorate many significant days and events which will help students to know about the historic,cultural and other crucial aspects of India.In this way they can contribute to the future of the nation and can also boost their overall development.

At institution level we are trying our level best to spread awareness about many important days which are under less priority but it could be more resulting if the university will take any other initiative at wider level.
